Occupational Profile

Working within the statutory, voluntary and private social care sector the Rehabilitation Worker assesses individual need and formulates, delivers and evaluates professional person-centred rehabilitation training to visually impaired people to develop and enhance the skills and confidence they need to maximise their independence. The worker is an advocate for visually impaired people, the sight loss sector and their employing organisation to support, design and influence the development of services and promote accessibility, equality, social integration and the societal contribution of people with a visual impairment.

Grading

The standard is graded overall: Fail, Pass or Distinction.

End Point Assessment

Case Study

The apprentice is required to critically review and answer questions on a complex and realistic case study that describes the physical, psychological and social situations of a person with a visual impairment, requiring statutory social care services. The case study will last for a duration time of 90 minutes.

Practical Rehabilitation Session

The apprentice will be required to assess the risk and suitability of an environment for travel by a person with no vision. They will deliver a training session covering an element chosen by the assessor and defend their delivery and planning in line with current legislation and good practice, providing solutions for a variety of clients with additional needs such as Deafblind or physical disability. The practical session will last for a duration time of 90 minutes.
